

Pragmatics and Language Learning

Indiana University, Bloomington

October 31-November 2, 2024

Call for Papers

Abstracts for individual (20-minute) presentations are invited in the following areas:

interlanguage pragmatics, pragmatic development, cross-cultural pragmatics, pragmatics and discourse, pragmatics and computer-mediated communication, pragmatic development in study abroad contexts, research design in the investigation of pragmatics, the effects of instruction on pragmatics, pragmatics and testing, classroom research, and other topics related to the learning of pragmatics in cross-cultural, second-language contexts.

Keynote Speakers

Kathleen Bardovi-Harlig, Indiana University

Rachel Shively, Illinois State University

Invited Colloquia

Pragmatics and Technology-Mediated Environments

Marta González-Lloret (University of Manoa at Hawai'i) & Julie Sykes (University of Oregon)

Integrating Pragmatics in Less Commonly Taught Languages

Alwiya Omar & Maria Shardakova (Indiana University) & Yunwen Su (Illinois State University)

Teaching & Learning Pragmatics for Intercultural Understanding

César Félix-Brasdefer (Indiana University), and Troy McConachy (University of Warwick, UK)

Abstract Submission Deadline: April 15, 2024

Abstracts must be 300 words max. in length (not including references), and must include title of paper and A/V requests.

Abstracts should be submitted through EasyAbstracts

Submissions are limited to one individual and one joint abstract per person.

Organizing committee:

Kathleen Bardovi-Harlig

César Félix-Brasdefer

For more information about the conference, please contact pll2024@indiana.edu